EMS Interactive Hoarding

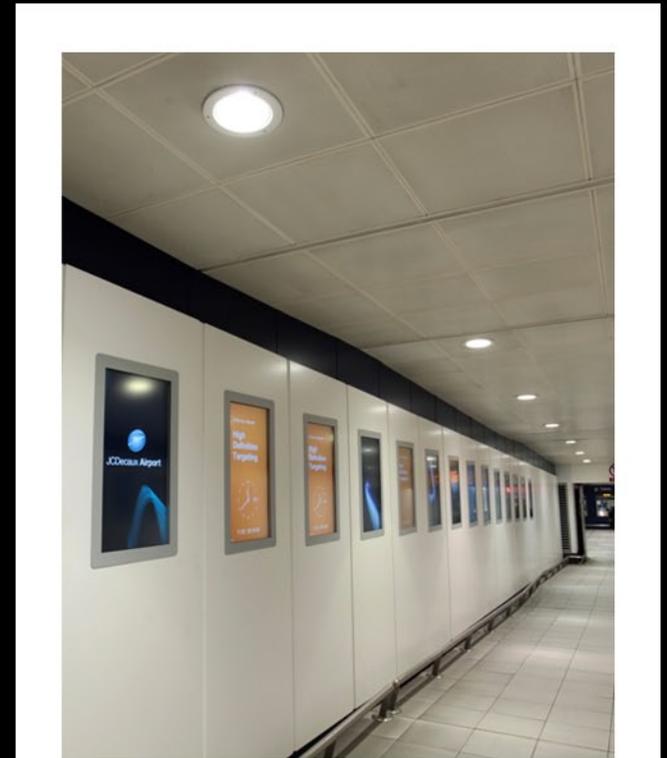

At EMS we have found a huge gap in the market for a totally new innovative product for today's new developers and leading companies. Our Interactive Hoarding allows a company to showcase their units before and during building progress.

A recent install allowed a developer to have sales staff on their site before building even started. Utilising our interactive hoarding system they created leads by interacting with members of the public, showing them a moving virtual tour of properties, giving more information than any brochure, in a interesting and fun way.

Large Touch-Screens including interactive moving images, full stereo sound and a cutting edge Bluetooth marketing system, resulted in increased sales and profits for the company.

Today, developers need to be more inventive to encourage engagement and recall from their new sites across the country. No one understands this better than EMS innovations.

We deliver attention grabbing products that inspire consumers on the street, where it matters most.

Digital Escalator Panels (DEPs) – London Underground

Marketing Suites

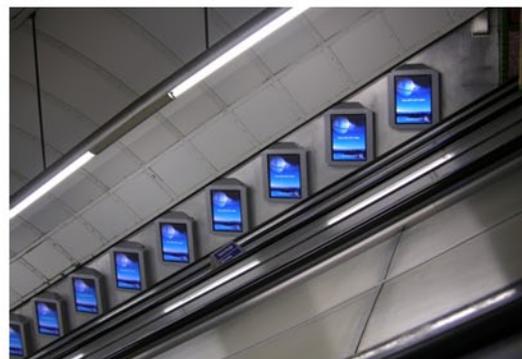

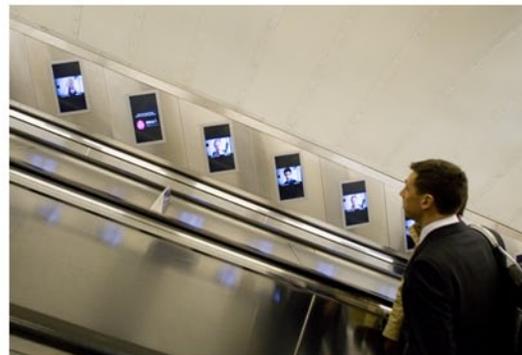

EMS Innovations has partnered up with the leading company that is recognised as the most ground-breaking solutions provider within the digital poster marketplace. Its unrivalled expertise in display technology has led to the development of its core product. The award winning 23" E5C digital escalator panel, which can transform blank walls into remarkable multi-media displays.

A further area of expertise is the production and installation of bespoke marketing and presentation suites or areas.

Designed with built-in media players that can synchronise with each other, they can be networked and orchestrated to create dazzling visual effects.

Images appear to pass from screen to screen, seamlessly cascading from one to the next, demanding the attention of viewers in a way that static images never could.

An infinite number of screens can be networked together using EMS's patented ImageFlow™ technology so that the adverts appear to move with the audience.

Award winning 23" E5C Digital Escalator panels. Installed on London Underground Network's escalators.

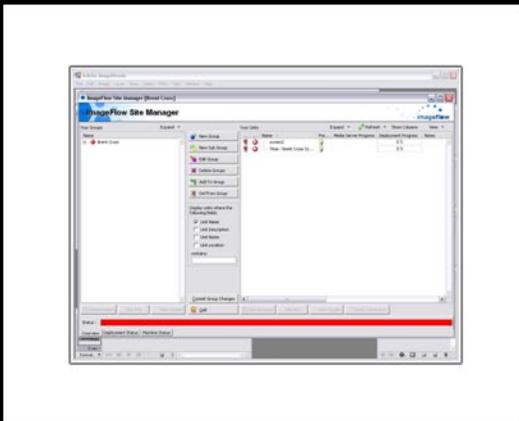

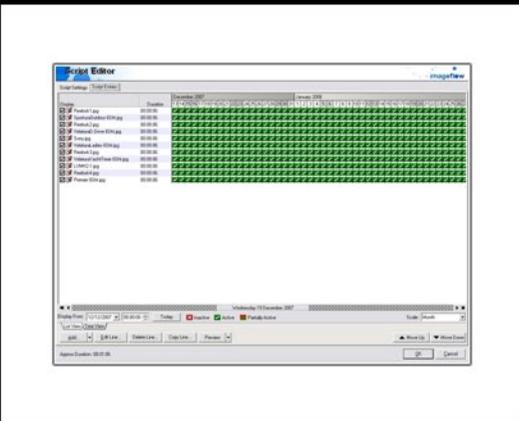

Manufacture & Software

Manufacture

We can tailor make your products to suit your needs. We manufacture all elements to the highest standards, and fully test each part before, during and after install. EMS can supply a full maintenance plan to ensure use for many years to come.

Software

ImageFlow™ is unique suite of Secure Admin Software Packages. Controls the content distribution and management of networked digital display panels with synchronised content.
